

Social walk 15th January 2006

The first social walk of the year took place at Keynes Country Park part of the Cotswold Water Park. We met at noon in the car park where hounds and humans renewed acquaintances before setting off. The planned walk was 3.5 miles but with 72 lakes making up the water park there was plenty more for those so inclined. Several of us had young dogs who had grown and changed since we had last met and there was the usual fun spotting who was who now they were older. The water was available for those hounds inclined to paddle and we retired to a local village hall for the customary soup and rolls kindly provided by Judith and Maria.
